

Code of Conduct Policy

INTRODUCTION

Vesper's ability to act as a responsible and professional company and business-partner depends largely on its employees' and consultants' ability to up-hold and promote the highest standards and ethics in their daily work and behaviour. All Vesper's employees and consultants are collectively responsible to adhere, maintain, and continuously improve these standards. Managers have a responsibility to set good examples, encourage and ensure compliance with this Policy in order to contribute to a good working environment for employees, consultants, sub-contractors, partners, and clients.

This Policy is intended to act as a guide for employees and consultants to make ethical and professional decisions in their professional, and at times private, lives and is designed to assist in understanding obligations and responsibilities placed on employees and consultants when working on behalf of Vesper. The policy builds on, and complies to, the International Code of Conduct for Private Security Providers.

Adherence to this Policy and the International Code of Conduct will contribute to minimizing negative impact on the surrounding environment and communities in which Vesper operates, to responsible provision of security services, and to support a high public profile and solid reputation of Vesper.

CORE VALUES AND GUIDING PRINCIPLES

Whilst working on behalf of Vesper it is of utmost importance for all employees and consultants to respect and adhere to the following core values and guiding principles:

General behaviour and conduct shall reflect and adhere to the universal values of the United Nations, as described in the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, including respect for human rights, human dignity, equal rights for men and women, non-discrimination, social justice and security.

Compliance with national laws and regulations in the countries where Vesper operates.

Exercising restraint and caution in a manner consistent with applicable international guidelines regarding the use of force, including the UN principles on the Use of Force and Firearms by Law Enforcement Officers and the UN Code of Conduct for Law Enforcement Officials, as well as best practice developed by companies, civil society organizations and governments.

Compliance with Vesper's instruction regarding the Rule for the Use of Force.

Compliance with and respect for the labour-conventions as established under the leadership of the International Labour Organization (ILO), including the fundamental ILO conventions (freedom of association and protection of the right to organize, abolition of forced labour, minimum wage, worst forms of child labour, non-discrimination etc.)

Support of the ILO-driven principle to promote opportunities for men and women to obtain decent and productive work in conditions of freedom, equality, security and dignity.

At all times maintain the highest degree of professionalism, ethics and integrity.

Demonstrate discretion and maintain confidentiality as required.

Establish and maintain constructive, professional and respectful working relations within Vesper, with partners and subcontractors, with clients, also taking into account external stakeholders such as local communities and environment in which Vesper operates.

Prevent and oppose all forms of exploitation of vulnerable individuals and the abuse of power.

Ensure that all activities are in full compliance with international standards and ethics and will not contribute to any harmful or criminal event or practice.

Promote and strive for an environmental friendly approach including considering environmental friendly technologies and materials, recycling policies and practices, and less harmful working methods to minimize impact on the environments and its resources.

COMMITMENT OF EMPLOYEES AND CONSULTANTS

As an employee or consultant of Vesper I hereby commit myself to:
